History will not forget, Generations will not forgive

By Ammar Ahmed

Leah was sitting on a sofa in her lounge. She was watching TV. She has just celebrated her 17th birthday last week. Like the youth of all countries, she also takes a keen interest in regional and international politics but she does not believe in hearsay and she confirms the information she gets, verifies it then forms some opinion on that. She was a sensitive girl. She belongs to a Jewish family. Her ancestors moved to the US after the 2nd world War. Her mother, Elijah is a very active social worker with a deep interest in religious matters. She has been a firm believer in the faith that the Messiah will come shortly and then all the Jews will get their homeland and they will rule the world under his leadership. Her husband Viktor has been in the Israeli defense forces for the last 5 years.

Elijah was busy doing daily chores in her open kitchen with the lounge when she heard Leah screaming.

“Mom, Mom see this”.

She turned back and looked at the TV screen. There was some headline saying HAMAS had attacked Southern areas in Israel and killed hundreds of Civilians.

“These terrorists will never let this world be a peaceful place.” She said with anger. Viktor has been posted towards the northern side so she was not much worried about him with this news.

“I just can’t understand why they simply do it, why can’t they stay without fighting with others,” Leah asked her with disbelief.

“You should see for yourself now. They do this to peaceful citizens and tourists and then become victims as if our forces have been killing them.” She was talking with hatred.

“Mom there are some students in my class who say that we have forcefully captured their land, I told them that this is not true but they don’t believe it.” She said with a confused face.

“This is their reality. They have attacked our territory. They have killed innocent people. We didn’t capture their land. I think you should keep your company with like-minded people in your university.” She growled pointing her finger to the TV screen and then went to her room. Although Leah has also learned about their religious beliefs Elijah avoids discussing them with her as she asks different questions and Elijah wants her to learn about them when she gets much older.

The next day the news details came that it was an attack on a music festival. They killed around 260 people and captivated others. There was a German tourist girl called Shani Louk and Hamas terrorists also killed her. Leah was in shock. She talked to her father after the attack and he said that rescue work is still in progress and the situation is very tense there. She also had a verbal spat with her classmates about this. When she told them about casualties and wounded people, they said it was the first time in 50 years that someone from Palestine had retaliated and that they had been dealing with these casualties for the last 75 years at the hands of IDF (Israel Defense Forces).

Meanwhile, Israel has responded with 500 strikes since Hamas's attack and these attacks have reportedly killed around 600 people. Later that night she was having dinner with her mother. Elijah was still very angry and she just wanted to kill every single person in GAZA (The city of Hamas's headquarters). They both were quiet and barely eating. Leah was worried about the situation but something was missing. She saw the videos of Israel's attacks on Gaza but she didn't see a single clip of attacks carried out by Hamas. All she has seen on TV are news tickers with several attacks, casualties, and wounded people from Hamas's strikes. News channels are biased and barely showing news of Israel's strikes but social media is full of clear footage of Palestinian civilians crying over dead bodies of their loved ones who have died in Israel bombings. Leah was still thinking about this when Elijah said:

"Oh my god!" she was watching TV and Piers Morgan in his show was talking about this recent exchange of attacks between the two sides. Leah also started listening.

“Yes that’s right. There are reports that 40 babies have been murdered and some of them have been beheaded”. Piers Morgan said.

Leah was in shock. Elijah started crying and cursing Hamas. Leah who was already barely eating, couldn’t sit there anymore. She also had tears in her eyes when she went to her room. She was sitting on her bed, bending her legs. The thought of beheading small babies has terrified her. She has seen that in some horror movies but this was not about a movie it was about human beings, especially babies. She lies down trying to sleep.

The next day Leah did not go to university as she was suffering from a fever. She didn’t check the social media all day as she was still terrified with that news. Elijah was worried about her condition. She knew Leah was too sensitive with these sorts of things.

“You can take two or three days off dear!” She told Leah who was reading some books.

“No Mom! I am fine now, I’ll go tomorrow. I just wish this all to stop soon” Leah replied.

“Oh don’t worry about that, IDF has been on a rampage to kill every single Islamic terrorist who has done that horrible crime,” Elijah said making an angry face.

Two days later Leah returned from her university and went straight to Elijah’s bedroom where she was half lying and having some juice. Elijah was surprised to see her as Leah was angry with something.

“Mom! It was a lie.” Leah said she had her mobile in her hand.

“What? What are you talking about dear?” Elijah asked her sitting straight.

“That news about 40 babies being beheaded by Hamas, it was a fake news mom. They all lied” Leah replied.

“Oh and how can you say that?” she asked calmly.

“See this.” Leah played a video clip on her mobile and showed it to her. In that clip, Piers Morgan was talking in a program and he was saying that he did not say anything about babies being decapitated/beheaded.

“It must be a misunderstanding.” She said casually as if she already knew about this.

“A misunderstanding Mom, telling the world that Hamas beheaded 40 babies is just a misunderstanding. Portraying them as the biggest monster and evil of this world is just a misunderstanding for you. You were crying, cursing them that day. I didn’t sleep properly for the last two days. There is no proof of this news. It was not a misunderstanding, it was propaganda, a lie to get a license to kill people.” Leah replied as she was puzzled by her mother’s response.

“Leah, President Biden also saw that video of those babies,” Elijah argued.

“President Biden lied about watching the video of this horrible crime and then the President’s office denied it. This killing game should end now. “She was not giving up either.

“They started it dearly and they will have to pay for what they have done and I do not want further argument on this,” Elijah said trying to finish the argument as she knew she would have no answer to her daughter’s questions and she didn’t want to start any argument with her regarding their religious beliefs.

“Mom you know now I doubt whether that attack from Hamas on the music festival was real or was it a lie like this and that German tourist, Shani Louk who according to media was killed by Hamas, is still alive as told by her family.” Leah angrily replied and left the room. She was startled at her mother’s reaction to this.

On the weekend Leah was checking social media when she read about an attack from the IDF on Al-ahli hospital in Gaza. 470 people were reported to be killed. All social media platforms were full of bloodied images of men, women, children, and infants. Israeli PM’s respondent tweeted that the Israeli Air Force struck a Hamas terrorist base in Gaza hospital. After seeing criticism from the public he deleted the tweet soon and started blaming Hamas for the strike. She scrolled through the phone for a while but it was too difficult for her to watch so she put the mobile down and started crying. After some time when Elijah came to ask her for tea, she found her crying badly. She rushed to her and asked her:

“What happened Leah? Why are you crying?”

“Mom IDF, they have bombed the hospital, Mom. There were dead bodies everywhere Mom. It is inhuman. We are worse than animals’ moms!” She replied while crying.

“Leah dear please try to understand, this had to happen. If not today then after some years. It was bound to happen.” She decided to talk to her about everything today.

“What do you mean it had to happen?” Leah surprisingly asked.

“Listen and listen carefully. It was our land where they had been living. It was our sacred land. Our ancestors migrated there under the leadership of Moses and Messiah is bound to come there so we had to clear the land for him to arrive and return us our rule over the world.” Elijah said separating each word so that Leah could understand it clearly.

Leah was looking at her with her mouth open. Tears flowed from her eyes. After a few seconds, she took a long breath and then started talking looking into her mother’s eyes.

“You said you have to clear the land, right? From what? Was there some dirt or garbage or animals? And how did you have to clear it? By sweeping or deporting? They were human beings like us Mom. Did you clear that place by bombing them? You vanished them.”

She took a breath and continued again.

“I still can’t believe what you have just said. And who told you to clear the land for Messiah like this by killing innocent injured people in a hospital? Did your Messiah tell you to do this? If he told you Mom then you must be waiting for some false messiah.” She was still in tears while Elijah let her complete then replied:

“We have been trying for the last 75 years but they are not leaving our land. And Messiah didn’t ask us to do it but someone has to sacrifice Leah so please don’t take it so seriously. You are still immature to understand these things.”

“My class fellows were right then, we have been forcefully trying to displace them from their land where they allowed us to refuge when all others rejected. And sacrifice for what? Killing 4 months baby with a bomb is a murder, a cold-blooded murder. How would you feel if they would have killed me like this?” Leah asked.

“I will kill everyone before they touch you.” Elijah replied immediately.

“They will have this same hatred for us right now Mom. We have murdered them. We are not civilized people. No one attacks hospitals even during a war.” She yelled.

“Leah calm down. I didn’t want to have a debate with you over this but since you are just getting too emotional about it so let me tell you that we are the “Chosen People”, chosen by god. We are His beloved people so even if we do something bad intentionally then we will not be severely punished. And as far as I think we have not done anything wrong yet. We are just recovering our land from them and all is fair in love and war.” Elijah told her specifically emphasizing the word chosen people.

Leah was stunned to hear the thoughts of her mother. She looked at her for a moment then got out of her bed to leave the room. On reaching the door, she turned back and said:

“Mom I am sorry to say but I am deeply in pain knowing your thoughts and seeing your ignorance about this barbaric act. You are right you shouldn’t have discussed it with me not because I am too immature to understand but because I can never think like that. I never debate with anyone about religious beliefs but I would just like to say that whatever you have attributed from this theory of “Chosen People” is wrong. You are accusing God of being unjust with this theory. We are not the contract killers of God to kill His other creatures. These people murdered by us are not of any lesser God. History never forgets mom and generations never forgive. It’s been around 90 years since Hitler murdered our ancestors but still, we hate them the same, similarly, the next generations of people will remember and keep hating us for this. There was just one Hitler in Germany but today we all have become Hitler. We ruined the sacrifices of our ancestors. We had to learn the lesson of empathy from what we had faced in the past but unfortunately, we chose to learn racism. You can stay with your beliefs but I will not be a part of this anymore.” Then she left.

The next few days were more difficult for the people of Gaza and humanity. Leah was busy with social media campaigns to collect aid for Gaza. She was normal with Elijah and her father whom she called twice during these days. There was a protest in support of Gaza where she was also present collecting funds for people facing terror in Gaza. Elijah saw her on TV in that protest. Leah was also invited to speak to the crowd. She came and started her speech:

“Hello everyone, I am Leah Robowski. I know a few eyebrows have raised and there are a few whispers over my presence here. I am ashamed today not because of my religious background but because I see myself today as a failed human being. Whatever has happened in the last three weeks has shown us that we are all hypocrites shouting for human rights everywhere but when it was needed the most to speak, we kept quiet. We didn't do it for the first time, we had done this in the past in Germany, Afghanistan, Iraq, Syria, Kashmir, and many other territories. We have prioritized our wealth and foreign relations over humanity. I tell you that being a Jew, I never forget the holocaust, concentration camps, and all that happened to us in Germany. I didn't forget the silence of these civilized countries at that time. I can never forget that. Although I didn't witness it, I just read it. What I have been witnessing now is the same thing. I will never forget this and I will never forgive those who helped this heinous act and those who chose to be neutral. Today I want you to remember a few things and never forget them. When you go to purchase ice cream for your child then don't forget that ice cream truck in Gaza, full of dead bodies of children of your child's age, killed by your government. When you carry some food parcel for your loved ones then remember the father who had to carry the body parts of his children in shopping bags because we blast those children with our bombs. When some Jew asked you to don't talk about the holocaust then show them the clip of the little child shaking with fear in Gaza. When they ask you to condemn some injustice here then remind them that it was the US who not once but twice opposed the UN resolution for Ceasefire in Gaza. When they ask you to respect their dead ones then remind them that it was Joe Biden who asked for the list of His victims that he murdered in Gaza giving the impression that the Gaza health ministry is giving wrong numbers. According to that list, 7028 innocent unarmed civilians have been bombarded to death by Israel and the US. When they tell you that Hamas is a terrorist group then remind them that hostages who have been released by Hamas have praised them and the country that has committed the most number of civilian murders ever is the US. Last night the communication of Gaza with the world was cut down and like cowards, at night, Israel Air Force bombarded Gaza with unlimited bombs. The casualties have not been counted till now. When they lecture you about freedom of speech then show them how the media was biased in their favor and they were murdering the journalists who were reporting the truth. The wrong beliefs, false faith of some people, and criminal silence of world leaders are the reasons for this genocide, massacre, and inhumanity. I wish we could send weapons with food and other aid to the people of Gaza so they could fight against them because they are way more courageous than us in their faith. I want you all to keep raising your voices, keep sending aid, and keep praying for them. May those who killed, rest in peace, and May God keep others safe. Ameen." She wiped her tears at the end join the crowd again.

The End
